Sudanese Pound - Change

The Central Bank of Sudan repealed, with effect from 7 March 2022, the regulation governing the methods for determining the indicative exchange rates of the Sudanese pound (SDG) against the main currencies and the intervention mechanism on the foreign exchange market. Following that regulation, the Central Bank of Sudan stopped publishing official Sudanese pound exchange rates on its website. Foreign exchange companies, in accordance with the guidelines issued by the Central Bank, report the market exchange rates applied to their transactions on a daily basis, for publication on the central bank's website. The Bank of Italy has therefore updated the historical series of the exchange rates of the Sudanese pound against the Euro and the US dollar in its exchange rate portal, starting from the time the data became available again. The monthly averages for the months of June 2022 and July 2022 were recalculated and are now available on the exchange rate portal.
