€coin falls slightly in November

- In November the decline in €coin (to 0.06 from 0.08 in October) under way since May continued, albeit at a slower pace.
- The fall of industrial output from the summer onwards and the persistent weakness of domestic demand weighed on the indicator. A slightly positive contribution came instead from the performance of equity markets.
- The €coin indicator developed by the Bank of Italy provides a summary index of the current economic situation in the euro area. The indicator is an estimate of quarterly GDP growth shorn of the most erratic components (seasonal variations, measurement errors and short-run volatility). €coin is published monthly by the Bank of Italy and CEPR.
- Next €coin release dates: Tuesday 23 December and Friday 30 January (preliminary).

€coin and euro-area GDP – November 2014

€coin collates data from a large set of macroeconomic time series (industrial production indices, business surveys, demand indicators, stock market indices and more). It extracts the information that is relevant to tracking underlying GDP trends for the entire area.

The €coin estimate is timely, leading Eurostat's official release of the area-wide GDP growth figure by several months. And it provides a reasonably close anticipation of the quarterly growth rate net of the more volatile components. The estimate of underlying growth trends by €coin has two key advantages:

- (i) monthly frequency, with release several months ahead of the official euro-area GDP estimate;
- (ii) immunity to the short-term fluctuations and measurement errors that mark quarterly output growth; that is, the index figure is an indicator of the euro area's actual growth momentum.
