FOOTNOTES

- (1) Eurosystem harmonized definitions (see the Methodological appendix of the publication "Banks and money: national data"). The figures refer to the business of Italian banks with counterparties resident in Italy. The growth rates are calculated including loans not stated in banks' balance sheets because securitized and excluding changes in stocks not due to transactions (e.g. changes due to exchange rate variations, value adjustments and reclassifications). The figures for the last month are provisional. In addition to the monthly developments for the reference month, this press release incorporates revisions to the data for previous months. In January 2017 the growth rates for bank loans have been recalculated from June 2015 onwards, in order to incorporate revised data from reporting banks and exploit new statistical information on securitizations and loan sales. The effect on growth rates has been minor. The related time-series are available on the Bank of Italy's website under Statistics/Statistical database (BDS).
- (2) In addition to households and non-financial corporations, the private sector includes insurance corporations, pension funds and the other financial institutions; transactions concluded with central counterparties are excluded.
- (3) Includes overnight deposits, deposits with agreed maturity, deposits redeemable at notice and repos; deposits connected with securitizations are excluded.
- (4) Nominal value. As of December 2011 the item includes bonds issued with a state guarantee under Decree Law 201/2011.
- (5) Market value. As of December 2011 the item includes bonds issued with a state guarantee under Decree Law 201/2011.
