€-coin falls in November

- The €-coin indicator fell from 0.71 in October to 0.16 in November, close to the levels recorded in the final part of 2020, pointing to a significant slowdown in economic activity.
- The indicator has been affected by the deterioration in consumer and business confidence, the acceleration in production prices, especially for energy production, and the worsening macroeconomic outlook, mainly associated with the renewed outbreak of the pandemic and reflected in the performance of the financial markets.
- The €-coin indicator developed by the Bank of Italy provides a summary index of the current economic situation in the euro area. The indicator is an estimate of quarterly GDP growth shorn of the most erratic components (seasonal variations, measurement errors and short-run volatility). €-coin is published monthly by the Bank of Italy and CEPR.
- Next €-coin release dates: Friday 31 December 2021 and Friday 4 February 2022 (provisional).

€-coin and euro-area GDP – November 2021

Source: Bank of Italy and Eurostat.

Note: The €-coin series is based on the real time estimates of the indicator at a given date and hence the series is not revised. On the other hand, the GDP growth rates are calculated on the basis of Eurostat's most recently published series and do reflect any changes in the historical data.

€-coin is constructed monthly by exploiting a vast set of macroeconomic time series (e.g. industrial production indices, business and households surveys, demand indicators, and stock market indices) in order to extract the data needed to estimate the underlying trend of euro-area GDP growth.

€-coin precedes by several months the official euro-area GDP figure released by Eurostat and gives an early indication of the trend net of any erratic or short-term components.

The following table shows the performance of the €-coin indicator over the last year:

Month	€-COIN
November 2020	0.11
December 2020	0.38
January 2021	0.99
February 2021	0.96
