€-coin rises in March

- The €-coin indicator rose again in March (to 0.77 from 0.59 in February). It should however be noted that given the date of publication of the data, some of the indicator's underlying variables refer to periods prior to Russia's invasion of Ukraine.
- The resilience of business confidence and the recovery in equity prices are factors contributing to the positive trend of the indicator and there are also signs that demand is holding up.
- The €-coin indicator developed by the Bank of Italy provides a summary index of the current economic situation in the euro area. The indicator is an estimate of quarterly GDP growth shorn of the most erratic components (seasonal variations, measurement errors and short-run volatility). €-coin is published monthly by the Bank of Italy and CEPR.
- Next €-coin release dates: Friday, 6 May and Wednesday, 1 June (provisional).

€-coin and euro-area GDP – March 2022

Source: Bank of Italy and Eurostat.

Note: The €-coin series is based on the real time estimates of the indicator at a given date and hence the series is not revised. On the other hand, the GDP growth rates are calculated on the basis of Eurostat's most recently published series and do reflect any changes in the historical data.

€-coin is constructed monthly by exploiting a vast set of macroeconomic time series (e.g. industrial production indices, business and households surveys, demand indicators, and stock market indices) in order to extract the data needed to estimate the underlying trend of euro-area GDP growth.

€-coin precedes by several months the official euro-area GDP figure released by Eurostat and gives an early indication of the trend net of any erratic or short-term components.

Month	€-COIN
March 2021	1.36
April 2021	0.92
May 2021	1.01
