€-coin remained essentially stable in February

- In February, €-coin stood at a level close to that of the previous month (0.43, compared with 0.39 per cent in January).
- The indicator was buoyed by the improvement in business and consumer confidence and by the positive developments in wages; it continues to be held back by persistently weak manufacturing.
- The €-coin indicator developed by Banca d'Italia provides a summary index of the current economic situation in the euro area. The indicator is an estimate of quarterly GDP growth shorn of the most erratic components (seasonal variations, measurement errors and short-run volatility). €-coin is published monthly by Banca d'Italia and CEPR.
- The next publication dates for €-coin are Thursday, 3 April 2025 and Monday, 5 May 2025 (to be confirmed).

€-coin and euro-area GDP

Source: Banca d'Italia and Eurostat.

Note: The €-coin series is based on the real time estimates of the indicator at a given date and hence the series is not revised. On the other hand, the GDP growth rates are calculated on the basis of Eurostat's most recently published series and do reflect any changes in the historical data.

€-coin is constructed monthly by exploiting a vast set of macroeconomic time series (e.g. industrial production indices, business and household surveys, demand indicators, and stock market indices) in order to extract the data needed to estimate the underlying trend of euro-area GDP growth.

€-coin precedes by several months the official euro-area GDP figure released by Eurostat and gives an early indication of the trend net of any erratic or short-term components.
